GUIDELINES FOR CHANGE OF LAND USE

In order to remove certain difficulties the guidelines issued vide UDD 165 BMR 2012 dated 18.09.2012 regarding change of land use under Section 14-A of KTCP Act has been withdrawn and replaced with these guidelines.

1. Section 14-A of KTCP Act provides for Change of Land Use from approved Master Plan. However, Section 14-A clearly indicates the circumstances under which such CLU can be granted and pre-requisites for such proposals as below:

- Topographical or Cartographical or other errors and omissions
- Failure to fully indicate the details in the Master Plan
- Changes arising out of the implementation of the proposals in the Master Plan
- Circumstances prevailing at any particular time, by the enforcement of the plan.

Further the Act clearly states

- That all changes should be in public interest
- The changes proposed do not contravene any of the provisions of this Act or any other law governing planning, development or use of land within the local planning area.
- The proposals for all such changes are published in one or more daily newspaper, having circulation in the area, inviting objections from the public within a period of not less than fifteen days from the date of publication, as may be specified by the Planning Authority.

2. Since development is a dynamic process, demand for development is bound to occur in areas where the land potential is high due to several factors that influence development. Further, several policies of Central and State Government, effected from time to time, have either direct or indirect influences on land, and may need to be accommodated in the overall land policy.

can be integrated in the overall development scenario envisaged for the city/town. The basic objective of KTCP Act is to provide regulation of planned growth of land use and development. From provision stated above, it is very clear that such changes permitted should not be against the basic spirit/intent of the Act. Further, changes should not jeopardise the proposals of Master Plans, prepared and approved under the Act. Hence change of land use provision should be viewed as an exception rather than a rule.

4. Planning is a macro exercise, wherein public interest is the chief motto. Accordingly the balance of conveniences always shifts in favour of planned development as against private interests. Hence change of land use proposals should be strictly viewed as a provision to basically correct anomalies in the Master Plan and provide for dynamic changes that may happen due to policy shifts, and not a natural right for dispersed private developments, which are not a part of overall Master Plan proposals. Indiscretionary change of land uses defeats the basic objective of the Act and the Master Plan. It is a tool that needs to be exercised sparingly and with caution.

5. Hon. Supreme Court has, in its judgement in case No. Appeal (civil) 938 of 2006, regarding the change of land use accorded by BDA from "Residential" to "Commercial Use", has observed that "the ingredients of Section 14-A has not been followed. However, the change of land use considered under the purview of Circumstances prevailing at any particular time has not been spelt out in the sanction order. Furthermore, none of the other requirements of law stated in the proviso appended thereto had been complied with. It is not known as to what was the public interest involved in directing such change of land use". Further, the Change of Land Use accorded by the Government and upheld by the Hon. Karnataka High Court was set aside.

6. Further, in several cases, Hon'ble High Court has taken serious exception to lack of details in CLU orders as laid down in the Act, and ordered for withdrawal of Change of Land Use orders issued by Govt.

7. KTCP Act clearly stipulates that the onus and responsibility of change of land use vests with the authority and authority has to judiciously take decision on permitting such changes within the overall framework of law as well as the planning principles. This has also been established in several case laws. However it has been noticed that authorities submit

From the range of land uses permitted have been questioned in the court of law.

8. Several circulars have been issued by Govt. from time to time giving instructions and guidelines on CLU proposals (list is annexed). In spite of the above, it has been noticed that proposals are being submitted to Govt. in contravention to the Act as well as circulars, and with incomplete information. Decision on case-by-case basis under such circumstances becomes discretionary and arbitrary, against the basic intent of the act, also depriving applicants' of natural justice and uniform application of rules. In order to streamline the process and apply uniform parameters for consideration/ rejection, a common set of guidelines are found necessary.

9. A committee was constituted by the Government vide its order No. UDD 165 BMR 2012, Bangalore dated: 09.08.2012, to prepare guidelines for change of land use. The committee submitted its report on 21.08.2012. In addition, meeting was also held to further discuss the draft guidelines submitted by the committee.

10. Accordingly, the following guidelines are issued by the Government to BMRDA/DTCP, all Urban Development/ Planning/ Municipal Planning Authorities.
